Matchpoints Versus IMPs Augie Boehm

Matchpoint and IMP events are based on very different scoring systems. Matchpoint scoring rewards the frequency of gain; how often do you find the winning action? IMP scoring rewards the amount of gain, the same basis for rubber bridge. Each form of competition is distinctive, and a successful, well-rounded player must master a broad range of strategies.

This book looks at the tantalizing question of which form of scoring is the more skillful, examines the role of luck, and shows how to pick a personal style.

Like my books on demon doubling, 3NT, and penalty doubles, the book is intended for the intermediate and advanced intermediate club and tournament player.
