Diary of a Night Bomber in World War I Clive Semple

Based upon the remarkable diary of the author's father, Leslie Semple, and his unique photographs, this is quite simply the only book on this subject. Flying at 18, Semple's astonishing experience has been meticulously put into context. How do you fly a Handley Page across France in total darkness? The answer is the 'Lighthouse system', just one of the revelations in this unique record of ingenuity and courage. The book is not simply a transcript of the diary - fascinating though it is. With the expert guidance of retired Wing Commander Mawby, Clive Semple has produced an overview of WWI aviation from a new and revelatory perspective. The 200-plus photographs alone, not only from the diary but also from the Imperial War Museum, provide solidly new information. Some of the pictures Leslie took could have led to a court martial. Leslie Semple was told what he volunteered for the Royal Naval Air Service that it was 'about as safe as infantry'. Not encouraging, when one considers the slaughter of the trenches.
