Michael's Eyes Robert W. Foster

Michael was born blind. He spent his days begging for money-until a strange man approached him one day. The strange man gave him his sight-and then was gone. The Pharisees threw a fit. They wanted to know the identity of this man and what right he had to heal in the name of God. Michael would later discover the man in question had been executed, which made Michael wonder.

With his newly regained sense, Michael goes on a long journey to discover other people touched by this magical man. He searches for a man named Lazarus, who they say was raised from the dead. He reaches out to the lepers, in search of those also healed by Michael's healer. He seeks Zacchaeus, a tax collector who changed his unruly ways. They are strangers spread across a country, and yet they have one man in common: Jesus.

Based on a story in chapter nine of the gospel of John, Michael's Eyes is one man's journey to discover his savior, even after his savior has been crucified and raised to heaven. Michael continually asks, "Why?" Why was this man Jesus rejected and executed? Why was he punished for healing the sick? And how can Michael use his blessed gift of sight to help others in need, in the name of the Lord?
